reported) and with the enemy gone. What has been accomplished is not visible. We have got rid of Bragg of his preschee at least, but we have no assurance that he will not soon be in our midst again.

To fellow him is impossible. No winter campaign can be carried on in this country with the guerifles in our rear. It is impossible to guard our rear. We have got to go back—begin a new campaign from a base more easily protected. All we have saved of the epitrg triumphs is the city of Nashville, and that is now endangered. To save it, an immediate campaign is necessary into middle Tennessee. Every day employed in watching Bragg is time lost. Gen. Badl must move from his present position, and Immediately. At any rate, the Cumberland and Tamessee inust be held as bases for future operations.

THE REMOVAL OF GEN. BUILL.

I cannot attempt to describe the outery and the feeling against Buell. You will ramem ber that Thomas, McCook, Crittenden, Wood, Smith, Behoepif, Jackson, Rosseau, Gilbert and others were instrumental in baving Buell reinstated in command after he had been removed by the war department. A new organization of the Amy was made to reward these men. Thomas was given the chief command in the field. McCook was given the chief command in the field. McCook was given the chief command in the field. McCook was given the first the content of the distance of forcing here in the first of the command in the field. As all gave them credit for alc-cerity then, it is presumed they are equally-sincere now. Gen. Thomas is quiet and grave-en the subject, and I am assured by excellent authority that he will not again interpose his remensirance to Buell's removal. General McCook and General Buell are no longer even friendly, a dispute having arisen as to the hear at which McCook informed Buell of the hour at which McCook informed Buell of the attack on Reaseau's column. Ortitenden ex-presses his feelings plainly. Smith speaks of the campaign as a shame. Wood is silent. Schoogif has been put under arrest for lan-guage used by him deprecating the order-which kept him out of the fight. Jackson is dead, a victim to the imbedility of some com-mander, and Rosseau thinks it was a mistake octor field Reaseau Perryilla. Gilbert, we-

But there is but likile doubt that when the facts of this campaign are published, that feen Buell's removal will follow. It will only be the justice which he deserves. Special.

Are they Republicans who have done this? Heve Mr. Arnold and the editors of the Cunoaco Triburgs been cogaged in the negations work? Has any man who claims just title to the Republican name been guilty of this crime? Has any war Democrat, of the Douglas school, so far forgotton himself as to be a traitor to his country? we acquit. Mr. Francis C. Sherman of the charges that we urge against others. He is a sodden fool in all that relates to matters of public concern, whom no body using him would trust lest in his folly he should blab. But he is a cat's paw in dishonest, and we believe emineatly treasonable hands. In Cougress he would be a voting machine, the operating lever of which would be in the keeping of men he are using his wealth, his respecta villes. He is a sodden fool in all that relates to matters of public concern, whom no body using him would trust lest in his folly he should blab. But he is a car's paw in dishonest, and we believe eminearly treasonable hands. In Cougress he would be a voting mischine, the operating lever of which would be in the keeping of men who are using his wealth, his respectability as a business man, and his character as an old citizen, to serre their bad purposes—to carry out the programme which the rebel Congress injudiciously, in a moment of unusual exaltation, shadowed forth. The rebel confederates of the Northwest—the "high spirited and intelligent public stores are sent which $1,000 was paid, but the store the store of the concerpts yet of off at once to Pittaburgh.

They gaia the use of his money, this reputable name, and, through his want of political sense, attain their end without incurring the odium of their acts. The people of Cook sounty will see to it that the men who propose that the rebels shall dictate peace to the Republic from the city may be the result of the season. Much of it having been planted hite, fears were entertained that if would not fully mature before it would be nipped by frest, but the late, warm weather the city mature that the result of the season. dictate peace to the Republic from the city of Chicago do not come within gunshot of success in the great contest near at hand.

The allegation that the election of Lincoln caused secession, is one of the most impudent, barefaced falsehoods uttered by the tory press. The Democratic party alone is guilty. When it met in Charleston to nominate a candidate for President, bareface as any vokes as it did in 1861. This, in the source of the fact that there are no large towns any other cause which has about 1,300 in the army, polied as many votes as it did in 1861. This, in the what did it do then and there? It deliberately split in twain. It took the first step towards the dissolution of the Union. The Bouthern wing 1sid down their terms, stated their platform, and very distinctly informed the Northern wing that they would swallow nather Douglas or popular sovereignty: that both must go overboard, or the party would be dissolved, and the Northern part might paddle their portion of our forces. We are much addised. d, or the party would be disselved, he Northern part might paddle their most on the 23d day of April strelling for a week it was additional to the command.

and made war on the other, and n not seeved and made war on the Union. The Southern Democrats hated Douglas and popular sovereignty more fercely than they did Lincoln and alavery restriction, and had Douglas been elected the country would be involved in civil war all the same. The election of Lincoln merely furnished the pretext for secasion. But the real cause of the war was the refusa of the Douglas Democrats to comply with the demands of the Southern Democrats.

P. L. Underwood thought there were some persons who would wrade the laws or rules in an underhand way. The only advantage which the tariff had, was that reference could be made to it by bloomerable men, as a masses of information to them, and as a guide to govern transactions. He suggested that the rates should be amended so so to give 2; per craft, on bagged grain. The President explained that the Directors did not believe the plantity could be enforced.

As a Dow, in raphy to Mr. Houghteling, said it was very strange that guardlenne should come up have at this late day and plead ignorance. He was opposed to a tariff of rides because it takes away the life of trade, which is prospered by bonorable competition. OLD FEATHERS RENOVATED.
